

ARIZONA ECAP and the IEP

On February 25, 2008, the Arizona State Board of Education approved Education and Career Action Plans for all Arizona students in grades 9–12. We, as educators, believe that integrating an Education and Career Action Plan (ECAP) process into all facets of the school experience enables students to be lifelong learners and problem-solvers, developing and applying 21st century skills to their life experiences, as students, as workers, as consumers, and as responsible citizens. With the ability to identify skills and interests and to apply that knowledge to create their own ECAPs, our students will have developed needed skills to transition to postsecondary environments, fluidly and seamlessly, managing 21st century technologies and postsecondary work place requirements.

An ECAP (Education and Career Action Plan) reflects a student's current plan of coursework, career aspirations, and extended learning opportunities for developing the student's individual academic and career goals.

The ECAP is reviewed by the student and parent, at least annually, including (but not limited to): goal revision, new postsecondary career and education plans, financial aid opportunities, and changes in academic courses.

The Individualized Education Program (IEP) is a written plan for students identified with a disability who have been determined to be eligible for special education services. The most recent reauthorization supporting the development of IEPs was on December 3, 2004, and is known as the Individuals with Disabilities Education Improvement Act of 2004. Included in the act is the provision that beginning with the IEP developed no later than the IEP in effect when the student turns 16, the IEP must have a plan for transition services, which includes very similar information to that required in an ECAP. An IEP must include these eight transition components:

- Measurable postsecondary goals (MPGs)
- MPGs are updated annually
- MPGs are based upon age-appropriate transition assessments
- Transition services/activities
- Courses of study
- Annual IEP goals
- Student invitation to IEP meeting
- Outside agency invitation, with prior consent

The IEP is reviewed annually with the student and the parent and includes a discussion of recent assessment activities and results, goal revisions, interagency linkages, and changes in courses.

How Do the ECAP and IEP Align?

Each student will have a portfolio system of some kind. The portfolio is the repository of all career and academic planning information for a student, which will be accessible by the student, parent and/or legal guardian, and designated educators. This portfolio is thought of as the body of evidence. Throughout students' high school (and possibly middle school) years, summaries of assessments, inventories, and career development experiences will be recorded in the ECAP portfolio.

The ECAP is a template that will include specific components from the portfolio. The plan template will be designated by each district or school to pull specified data from the portfolio system. Not all of the information contained in the ECAP portfolio will appear in the ECAP plan at a given time, although it will be maintained as a body of evidence of the student's efforts.

Nonconfidential information about student activities and assessment summaries can and should be shared between the ECAP and the IEP. For example, summaries of career assessments, inventories, academic achievement, and community experiences could be added to the student portfolio throughout the year. Information contributed to the portfolio through general education efforts could supply relevant information to the special education teacher for the development of the current IEP. Of course, there will be some information included in the student’s IEP that will not become part of the portfolio due to the confidential nature of the information (e.g., disability specific information, or disciplinary action). Some of the information required on an IEP is not included nor required on an ECAP.

As schools design and implement the process for developing and managing ECAPs and IEPs, special education providers and individuals responsible for developing ECAPs can be essential partners, benefitting students with the least amount of duplication and confusion.
