Comprehension Check

True or False: The Surplus Catalog is a way for you to request USDA Foods even though you are currently out of entitlement.

Comprehension Check

True. The USDA Foods Program has to pay excess storage fees to the warehouse when physical inventory sits. The Surplus Catalog allows the USDA Foods Program the ability to move inventory and assist RAs by providing USDA Foods in the form of “bonus” entitlement.

Selecting Materials

Selecting Materials

Selecting Materials

- An RA should only request materials that they can receive the following week (next available delivery date – for schools in northern Arizona the delivery frequency may be bi-weekly)
- An RA should only request materials they can use in a timely manner
- An RA will use entitlement for requested materials unless no remaining entitlement is available – the requested materials are then “bonus”
- An RA should request enough materials to meet minimum case requirements if no other materials will be scheduled

Selecting Materials

1. Click on the Category of the material you are requesting.
2. Select the material you want and click Add To Cart.

11. Does the Delivery Date listed meet your needs? Once the requisition is processed and the requested materials are scheduled for shipment, you CANNOT make changes to the quantities or delivery date.
12. Will someone be onsite that day? Please consider your holiday breaks and school closures when placing Surplus requisitions as you will be charged a re-stocking fee for all cases if someone is not there to receive the shipment.

Comprehension Check

True or False: Since I do not have any remaining entitlement I should request as many cases off the Surplus Catalog as I possibly can.

Comprehension Check

False. An RA should only request a quantity in which they can successfully use within a month. The USDA Foods Program monitors requests and has the discretion to reduce quantities when deemed more than can be used in a month.

Placing a Requisition

- You may NOT edit a requisition or scheduled Surplus shipment once it has been placed
- You may only place one Surplus Catalog requisition a day

Questions and Answers

Questions and Answers

Can I change the date of my scheduled shipment that was created when my Surplus Catalog requisition was processed?

- No, the Surplus Catalog allows the USDA Foods Program to move inventory from the warehouse to RAs to avoid being charged excess storage fees. If shipment dates are changed to a later date, the USDA Foods Program is in jeopardy of receiving an excess storage fee invoice from the warehouse.

Can I Create Surplus Catalog Requisitions even if I do not have any remaining entitlement?

- Yes, the Surplus Catalog allows the USDA Foods Program to move inventory from the warehouse to RAs to avoid being charged excess storage fees. If you do have remaining entitlement, you will pay for the cases you request.
