

Community Eligibility Provision & Title I: Get the Facts

Presenter: Jessica Krug, ADE

The Community Eligibility Provision (CEP) of the National School Lunch Program allows schools in high-poverty areas to serve free meals to all students without collecting applications. While this is good news for students, it can cause distress for the Federal Programs Director. Join us to learn about how this program can improve student well-being, generate revenue for the food service department, and how it ties with state and federal funding. This session is ideal for schools who qualify for and are interested in adopting CEP.

Intended Audience: School Administrators, Federal Grants Administrators, Business Office/Finance, Other District Level Employees
